Petitions for Review filed before this Court

Petitioner Malingas filed a Petition for Review on September 24, 2015 which case was docketed as CTA Case No. 9150; while petitioner Evergreen filed separate Petitions for Review on November 13, 2015 which were respectively docketed as CTA Case Nos. 9191 to 9198.

Thereafter, respondent COC filed his Answers in CTA Case No. 9150 on December 1, 2015;⁷¹ in CTA Case No. 9191 on February 4, 2016;⁷² in CTA Case No. 9192 on February 17, 2016;⁷³ in CTA Case No. 9193 on January 11, 2016;⁷⁴ in CTA Case No. 9194 on January 11, 2016;⁷⁵ in CTA Case No. 9195 on February 19, 2016;⁷⁶ in CTA Case No. 9196 on January 14, 2016;⁷⁷ in CTA Case No. 9197 on January 11, 2016;⁷⁸ and in CTA Case No. 9198 on February 19, 2016.⁷⁹

The following are, inter alia, the special and affirmative defenses interposed by respondent COC in his Answer in CTA Case No. 9150: (1) as mandated by Republic Act (RA) 8178 and implemented by the National Food Authority (NFA) Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-003, rice importers are required to secure import permits from the NFA for all rice importations coming in and imported into the country; (2) it is undisputed that the subject containers or excess rice importations are without import permit, and as such, and as correctly ordered by the MICP District Collector, the subject excess rice importations are liable for forfeiture under Section 2530(f) of the TCCP, as amended; (3) petitioner Malingas has no authority to import rice in excess of that allowed by the NFA in the corresponding Import Permit, and the excess rice shipments are subject to seizure under Section 2503 of the law; and (4) upon verification of the import documents attached to the respective import entries and submitted with Section 1, Formal Entry Division, MICP, the quantity of rice shipment declared in the Bill of Lading, Import Entries, Packing List, Invoice, are all in excess, and thus, the excess rice importations are considered undeclared items that are ipso facto liable for forfeiture under the same Section 2530(f).

As for his respective Answers in CTA Case Nos. 9191, 9193, 9194 and 9197, respondent COC basically avers the same special and affirmative defenses as follows: (1) petitioner Evergreen has no locus standi to question whether the Philippines complied with the World Trade Organization (WTO) Agreement with respect to rice importation quotas; (2) as a private entity, petitioner Evergreen cannot seek to enforce the WTO Agreement regarding the expiration of the Special Treatment on rice importation quotas; (3) the issue regarding the validity of the subject NFA Memorandum Circular is a mere collateral attack which is prohibited; (4) the government is authorized to impose quantitative restrictions on rice importations since the authority of the NFA to issue the subject Memorandum Circular and to require import permits for rice did not automatically cease upon the expiration of the Special Treatment given to the Philippines; (5) respondent COC did not err in forfeiting petitioner's Evergreen's excess rice importations; (6) petitioner Evergreen's reliance on Section 2503 of the TCCP and Customs Administrative Order (CAO) No. 01-2014 is misplaced; (7) forfeiture is in order since the excess shipment is tantamount to prohibited importation; and (8) there is no basis for the amount claimed to be released.

In his Answers in CTA Case No. 9192, respondent COC avers the following special and affirmative defenses, to wit: (1) the validity of RA No. 8178 and NFA Memorandum Circular No. AO-02K13-003 vis-à-vis the WTO Agreement on Agriculture cannot be raised in the Petition, upon the following grounds: (i) petitioner Evergreen is estopped from assailing the said law and circular, (ii) RA No. 8178 and NFA Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-003 are presumed valid and cannot be collaterally attacked in this proceeding, (iii) petitioner Evergreen has no personality to invoke the provisions of the WTO Agreement on Agriculture, the same being reserved only to member-states, and (iv) Philippine courts, such as this Court, have no jurisdiction to declare that the Philippines violated its commitments under the WTO, and in the process, invalidate RA No. 8178 and NFA Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-003; (2) the WTO General Council granted the Philippines' request for extension of its special treatment of rice, for the period 1 July 2012 to 30 June 2017, making the issue moot and academic; and (3) the rice shipment found in excess of the quantity allowed under petitioner Evergreen's NFA Import Permit are importations considered absolutely prohibited and contrary to law, hence, should be forfeited to the government.

With regard to his Answers in CTA Case Nos. 9195, 9196 and 9198, respondent COC alleges substantially similar special and affirmative defenses, to wit: (1) petitioner Evergreen has no cause of action against respondent COC; (2) the subject containers of rice are in excess of the quantity allowed in petitioner Evergreen's Import Permit and beyond the rice allocation authorized by the NFA, hence, the same are prohibited importations, which are liable for forfeiture under Section 2530(f) of the TCCP, as amended; (3) as mandated in RA No. 8178 and implemented by NFA Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-003, rice importers are required to secure import permits from the NFA for all rice importations; and (4) the excess rice importations are considered undeclared items that must be ipso facto forfeited for violation of Section 2503 of the TCCP, as amended.

Thereafter, respondent COC filed an Ex-Parte Motion for Consolidation and Suspension of Pre-Trial on February 5, 2016, praying that CTA Case Nos. 9191, 9193, 9194, 9196 and 9197 be consolidated with CTA Case No. 9150 and that the submission of pre-trial briefs and the scheduled pre-trial conferences be suspended.⁸⁰

Petitioners also filed an Ex-Parte Motion for Consolidation and Suspension of Pre-Trial on April 14, 2016 in CTA Case No. 9198, praying for the consolidation of CTA Case Nos. 9192, 9195 and 9198 with CTA Case Nos. 9150, 9191, 9193, 9194, 9196, and 9197 and the suspension of the submission of pre-trial briefs and the scheduled pre-trial conference for CTA Case Nos. 9195 and 9198.⁸¹

The above consolidation was then approved pursuant to the Resolutions dated May 17, 2016⁸² and June 22, 2016.⁸³ This Court also set the cases for pre-trial conference on August 11, 2016 and directed the parties to file their respective Consolidated Pre-Trial Briefs.

Respondent filed his Consolidated Pre-Trial Brief on July 27, 2016,⁸⁴ while petitioners filed their Consolidated Pre-Trial Brief on August 9, 2016.⁸⁵

On August 11, 2016, pre-trial conference was conducted wherein the parties agreed that they will confer with each other to formulate a summary of admissions and stipulations of facts and issues to be incorporated in the Joint Stipulation of Facts and Issues (JSFI). This Court noted that the parties agreed to adopt the issue stated in respondent's Consolidated Pre-Trial Brief, "whether respondent erred in rendering the assailed Decisions declaring the excess rice importations as prohibited importations subject to forfeiture under the Tariff and Customs Code of the Philippines (TCCP)." This Court ordered that if no JSFI is submitted, the parties shall be deemed to have waived their right to enter into admissions and stipulations of facts, and the Court shall issue a Pre-Trial Order on the basis of the pre-trial conference proceedings. Should the Court find that the issue to be resolved is purely legal, the parties shall be directed to file their respective memoranda in support of their respective positions.⁸⁶

On September 21, 2016, respondent filed a Manifestation and Motion, stating that the parties could not stipulate on certain facts, which precludes them from filing the JSFI. Thus, respondent prays that the Pre-Trial Order be issued based on the August 11, 2016 pre-trial proceedings.⁸⁷

On October 13, 2016, the Court issued a Resolution stating that a Pre-Trial Order be issued based on the proceedings on August 11, 2016. The Court then ordered the submission of the judicial affidavits of the parties' intended witnesses and set the initial presentation of petitioners' evidence on February 21, 2017.⁸⁸

The Court issued the Pre-Trial Order on February 22, 2017,⁸⁹ but later on, petitioners filed their Motion to Amend Pre-Trial Order on March 24, 2017.⁹⁰

During the hearing held on the June 6, 2017, respondent COC clarified that the sole issue to be resolved in the instant case is purely legal and with respect to the factual matters of the petition, the same are admitted.⁹¹

Thus, in the Resolution dated July 7, 2017, the Court granted petitioners' Motion to Amend Pre-Trial Order, and set the hearing for the initial presentation of petitioners' evidence on August 29, 2017.⁹² The Court then issued an Amended Pre-Trial Order on August 2, 2017.⁹³

Subsequently, on September 25, 2017, the Court issued a Resolution partially granting petitioners' Motion for Issuance of a Production Order.⁹⁴ However, on December 14, 2017, the Court issued a Resolution stating that the presentation of the documents enumerated in the Resolution dated September 25, 2017 was deemed waived and petitioners were ordered to submit their Formal Offer of Evidence.⁹⁵

Thereafter, petitioners filed their Formal Offer of Evidence on February 2, 2018,⁹⁶ to which respondent filed his comment on March 2, 2018.⁹⁷ After examination of the records, the Court issued the Resolution dated April 23, 2018,⁹⁸ denying all of petitioners' documentary exhibits, and ordering the parties to file their respective memoranda within thirty (30) days from receipt of the said Resolution.

Petitioners filed their Memorandum on May 28, 2018,⁹⁹ while respondent COC filed his Memorandum on June 20, 2018.¹⁰⁰ Accordingly, on July 4, 2018, the Court declared the consolidated cases submitted for decision.¹⁰¹

Hence, this Decision.

CTA Case Nos. 9150, and 9191 to 9198

Petitioners' arguments:

Petitioners allege that respondent COC interpreted RA No. 8178 and NFA Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-003 to mean that the importation of rice still requires an import permit from the NFA.

According to petitioners, while RA No. 8178 expressly states that the policy of tariffication and the consequent repeal of other laws did not include those pertaining to rice, "which will continue to have quantitative import restrictions," it is not the only relevant law in relation to quantitative restrictions on rice. The provision of the WTO Agreement, a treaty to which the Philippines is a party, is also relevant. Specifically, following its commitment under the GATT¹⁰³-WTO, the Philippines is bound to comply with Part III, Article 4 of the Agreement on Agriculture (GATT), which provides that "members shall not maintain, resort to, or revert to any measures of the kind (quantitative import restrictions, discretionary import licensing, etc.) which have been required to be converted into ordinary customs duties, except as otherwise provided for in Article 5 and Annex 5."

Petitioners maintain that the Philippines was initially granted the privilege to impose quantitative restrictions on rice from 1995 to 2005, which was extended, after negotiation, until June 30, 2012. Petitioners submit that during this period, the Philippines through the NFA can regulate the entry of rice by imposing non-tariff barriers. But after June 30, 2012, petitioners believe that the Philippines is bound to convert the quantitative restrictions to ordinary customs duties with respect to rice importations.

In the instant consolidated cases, records would show that the rice shipments arrived in Manila after the expiration and before the renewal of the Special Treatment of rice under Annex 5 of the WTO. Accordingly, they are freely importable and need not be covered by any import permit.

Petitioners add that the subject shipment was duly declared as imported rice and covered by an import permit, negating that it is undeclared. Likewise, there is allegedly no misdeclaration because the subject shipment is exactly the same as the one declared in the import entry, which is imported rice. Rather, the instant cases are of misdeclaration as to quantity because the subject shipment has a variance in quantity only.

Petitioners also insist that misdeclaration in quantity which is not more than thirty percent (30%) is subject to payment of penalty. Petitioners claim that the instant case warrants only the imposition of surcharge because the percentage difference is only twelve percent (12%), well under the thirty percent (30%) limit.

Respondent's counter-arguments:

On the other hand, respondent COC counter-argues that since petitioners admitted that their rice shipments exceeded the quantity indicated in their import permits, they have no cause of action against respondent.

Respondent also points out that petitioners' interpretation of Section 2503 of the TCCP and CAO No. 01-2014 is erroneous.

Furthermore, respondent believes that the validity of RA No. 8178 and NFA Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-003 vis-à-vis the WTO Agreement on Agriculture cannot be raised in this petition.

According to respondent, petitioners are estopped from assailing the validity of RA No. 8178 and NFA Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-003. Respondent also avers that RA No. 8178 and NFA Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-003 are presumed valid and cannot be collaterally attacked in this proceeding; and that petitioners have no personality to invoke the provisions of the WTO Agreement on Agriculture, the same being reserved only to member-states.

Respondent likewise claims that the WTO General Council granted the Philippines' request for extension of its Special Treatment of rice, for the period July 1, 2012 to June 2017, making the issue moot and academic.

Lastly, respondent asserts that petitioners failed to overturn the presumption of regularity of respondent's decision and to discharge their burden; hence, they are not entitled to the relief prayed for.

THE COURT'S RULING

The Court finds for petitioners.

These consolidated cases assail the separate decisions of respondent COC, affirming the order of the MICP District Collector in forfeiting the alleged excess rice importations of petitioners. In the said decisions, respondent COC held that the excess rice importations are liable for forfeiture because the subject excess rice importations are without import permit, citing as basis, RA No. 8178, as implemented by NFA Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-003, in relation to Section 2530(f) of the TCCP, as amended, the pertinent portions of which respectively provide as follows:

Section 2 of RA No. 8178:

“SECTION 2. Declaration of Policy. – It is the policy of the State to make the country’s agricultural sector viable, efficient and globally competitive. The State adopts the use of tariffs in lieu of non-tariff import restrictions to protect local producers of agricultural products, except in the case of rice, which will continue to have quantitative restrictions.” (Emphasis supplied)

Section 4 of NFA Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-003:

“Starting April 10, 2013, all licensed NFA-licensed importers may apply to import by submitting the following documents to NFA Central Office, as basic requirements:

xxx xxx xxx

4.1. Letter of Intent detailing the importer’s volume of rice to be imported, its quality specifications and source country. The LOI shall also indicate the complete address, contact details and email address of the applicant;

4.2. Valid NFA Import License valid until 31 December 2013.”

Section 2530(f) of the TCCP, as amended:

“SEC. 2530. Property Subject to Forfeiture Under Tariff and Customs Laws. – Any vehicle, vessel or aircraft, cargo, article and other objects shall, under the following conditions be subject to forfeiture:

(f) Any article the importation or exportation of which is effected or attempted contrary to law, or any article of prohibited importation or exportation, and all other articles which, in the opinion of the Collector, have been used, are or were intended to be used as instruments in the importation or the exportation of the former.”

In the same decisions, respondent COC considered the supposed excess rice importation as undeclared items that are ipso facto liable for forfeiture for violation of Section 2503(f) of the TCCP, as amended, which reads as follows:

“SEC. 2503. Undervaluation, Misclassification and Misdeclaration in Entry. – xxx any misdeclaration or undeclared imported articles/items found upon examination shall ipso facto be forfeited in favor of the Government to be disposed of pursuant to the provisions of this Code.”

We disagree with respondent COC.

As a brief background, in 1994, the Philippines joined WTO as a founding member thereof, via the signing of the Agreement Establishing the World Trade Organization (which includes certain Multilateral Trade Agreements, such the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade [GATT] and Agreement on Agriculture), through then Secretary of the Department of Trade and Industry, Secretary Rizalino Navarro, and after the adoption by the Philippine Senate of Resolution No. 97.¹⁰⁴

By virtue of the said membership of the Philippines in the WTO, certain restrictions on the entry of agricultural and food products into the country were either reduced, removed, or made subject to tariff instead. Specifically, Article XI of the 1994 GATT requires the general elimination of Quantity Restrictions (QRs); while Article XIII of the 1994 GATT entails non-discriminatory application of such restrictions. Thus, as a rule, no QRs are allowed to be imposed by any WTO member in its country.

Nevertheless, Article 15 of the WTO Agreement on Agriculture (on Special and Differential Treatment) provides that developing member countries, such as the Philippines, shall have the flexibility to implement reduction commitments over a period of up to ten (10) years. Furthermore, any extension of the Special Treatment can be negotiated, pursuant to Section B(8) of Annex 5; Special Treatment with Respect to Paragraph 2 of Article 4, WTO Agreement on Agriculture. Consequently, this Special Treatment temporarily permitted the Philippines to impose QRs on the importation of rice from the years 1995 to 2005.

With reference to, and consistent with, the WTO Agreement, RA No. 8178, otherwise known as the "Agricultural Tarrification Act", was enacted on March 28, 1996, amending Presidential Decree No. 4, thereby giving power to the National Grains Authority, now the NFA, "to establish rules and regulations governing the importation of rice and to license, impose and collect fees and charges for said importation for the purpose of equalizing the selling price of such imported rice with normal prevailing domestic prices" and to "undertake direct importation of rice or it may allocate import quotas among certified and licensed importers, and the distribution thereof through cooperatives and other marketing channels, at prices to be determined by the Council regardless of existing floor prices and the subsidy thereof, if any, shall be borne by the National Government."

In 2006, pursuant to Article 4.2 and Section B of Annex 5 of the Agreement, the Special Treatment of the Philippines for rice was extended from July 1, 2005 to June 30, 2012. It was not until July 14, 2014 when the General Council of the WTO issued the Decision on Waiver Relating to Special Treatment for Rice of the Philippines, wherein the above-stated Special Treatment was extended until June 30, 2017.

In the meantime, on March 22, 2013, the NFA issued Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-03-003, providing that rice importers are required to secure import permits from the NFA for all rice importations, essentially imposing QRs on rice.

In this case, the subject rice importations were made on November 6, 13, 16, 26, 27, 30, 2013, and December 11, 2013. Thus, at the time of the said rice importations, while the NFA Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-03-003 was already extant, there has yet no extended Special Treatment for rice.

The crux of the controversy then is on whether or not RA No. 8178 in relation to the said NFA Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-03-003 may be used as legal bases for respondent COC to consider the subject excess rice importations as having no import permits and/or as undeclared items, which are subject to forfeiture under the law.

We answer in the negative.

In Pharmaceutical and Health Care Association of the Philippines vs. Health Secretary Francisco T. Duque III, et al.,¹⁰⁵ the Supreme Court said:

“Under the 1987 Constitution, international law can become part of the sphere of domestic law either by transformation or incorporation. The transformation method requires that an international law be transformed into a domestic law through constitutional mechanism such as local legislation. The incorporation method applies when, by mere constitutional declaration, international law is deemed to have the force of domestic law.

Treaties become part of the law of the land through transformation pursuant to Article VII, Section 21 of the Constitution which provides that ‘[n]o treaty or international agreement shall be valid and effective unless concurred in by at least two-thirds of all the members of the Senate.’ Thus, treaties and conventional international law must go through a process prescribed by the Constitution for it to be transformed into municipal law that can be applied to domestic conflicts.” (Underscoring and italics supplied)

Based on the foregoing, treaties are transformed into municipal or domestic laws after undergoing the constitutional process of having the same concurred in by at least two-thirds of the members of the Senate.

In this case, the WTO Agreement, including the Multilateral Trade Agreements attached thereto, was concurred in by the Senate through Resolution No. 97.¹⁰⁶ Consequently, the said Agreements became “a part of the law of the land” or were transformed into municipal or domestic laws.¹⁰⁷ Such being the case, WTO Agreement, with the said Multilateral Trade Agreements, attains the same force and effect as that as any other statute, such as RA No. 8178.

As a corollary, RA No. 8178 may be considered as a reference statute to the WTO Agreement and the Multilateral Trade Agreements attached thereto.

Statutes which refer to other statutes and make them applicable to the subject for legislation are called "reference statutes".¹⁰⁸ These statutes are frequently used to avoid encumbering the statute books by unnecessary repetition, and they have frequently been recognized as an approval method of legislation, in the absence of constitutional restrictions.¹⁰⁹ The adoption of an earlier statute by reference makes it as much as a part of the latter act as though it had been incorporated at full length.¹¹⁰

It is not hard to discern that RA No. 8178 referred to, and made applicable, the WTO Agreement (which necessarily includes the above-stated Agreement on Agriculture), as shown in the following provisions thereof, to wit:

"SEC. 3. Definition of Terms. – The following definitions apply to the terms used in this Act:

xxx xxx xxx

(c) 'Bound rate' refers to maximum limits on tariffs on products committed by the Philippines to the World Trade Organization (WTO) under the Uruguay Round Final Act.

(d) 'In-quota Tariff Rate' refers to the tariff rates for minimum access volumes committed by the Philippines to the World Trade Organization (WTO) under the Uruguay Round Final Act.

(e) 'Minimum Access Volume' refers to the volume of a specific agricultural product that is allowed to be imported with a lower tariff as committed by the Philippines to the World Trade Organization (WTO) under the Uruguay Round Final Act.

(National Grains Authority Act), as amended, is hereby further amended to read as follows:

‘In the exercise of this power, the Council after consultation with the Office of the President shall first certify to a shortage of rice that may occur as a result of a short-fall in production, a critical demand-supply gap, a state of calamity or other verified reasons that may warrant the need for importation: Provided, That this requirement shall not apply to the importation of rice equivalent to the Minimum Access Volume obligation of the Philippines under the WTO. xxx.’ (Emphases supplied)

Furthermore, it is noteworthy that the general elimination of the QRs on food and agricultural products into the Philippines contemplated under the GATT were adopted in RA No. 8178, under Section 4 thereof, which reads as follows:

“SEC. 4. Repeal. – The following laws and all other laws or provisions of law prescribing quantitative import restrictions or granting government agencies the power to impose such restrictions on agricultural products, except rice, are hereby repealed:

(1) Republic Act No. 1296, entitled: ‘An Act to Prohibit the Importation of Onions, Potatoes, Garlic, and Cabbages, Except for Seedling Purposes, and to Provide Penalties for the Violation Thereof’;

(2) Republic Act No. 2712, entitled: ‘An Act to Prohibit the Importation of Coffee’;

(3) Presidential Decree No. 1297, as amended, entitled: ‘Centralizing the Importation of Ruminants for Breeding, Slaughter and Beef’;

(4) Paragraph 10 of Section 23 of Republic Act No. 7607, entitled: ‘An Act Providing a Magna Carta for Small Farmers’;

(5) Paragraph (a) of Section 15 of Republic Act No. 7308, entitled: ‘Seed Industry Development Act’;

(6) Section 4 of Republic Act No. 4155, as amended, entitled: 'An Act Promote and Strengthen the Virginia Tobacco Industry'; and

(7) Presidential Decree No. 1483, entitled: 'Authorizing the Importation of Foreign Cigar Leaf Tobacco for Blending Purposes.'"

With the foregoing, it is without doubt that RA No. 8178 adopted the WTO Agreement, including the Multilateral Trade Agreements attached thereto. Relative thereto, it must be stated that the adoption of an earlier statute by reference makes it as much as a part of the latter act as though it had been incorporated at full length.¹¹¹ In addition, one of the well-established rules of statutory construction enjoins that endeavor should be made to harmonize the provisions of a law or two laws so that each shall be effective.¹¹²

Clearly, RA No. 8178 should be read in relation to the WTO Agreement, with the said Multilateral Trade Agreements, which already forms part of Philippine laws.

As previously mentioned, pursuant to the WTO Agreement, WTO member countries like the Philippines are prohibited from imposing QRs on imported products. Nevertheless, a Special Treatment is accorded to certain countries, allowing them to impose discretionary import licensing as a matter of exception to the rule.

In this regard, the Philippines, by way of exception, applied for and was allowed to enjoy Special Treatment from the years 1995 to 2005, or for ten (10) years, and a further extension of seven (7) years until June 30, 2012. In other words, the Philippines was allowed to impose discretionary import licensing until June 30, 2012. Before the expiration of the Special Treatment on June 30, 2012, the Philippines requested for another extension. However, the extension was granted only on July 24, 2014 through the Decision on Waiver Relating to Special Treatment for Rice of the Philippines, wherein the above-stated Special Treatment was extended until June 30, 2017.

Thus, on the basis of the provisions of the WTO Agreement, there was no need to secure import permit from the NFA at the time petitioners imported the subject rice shipments in November 6, 13, 16, 26, 27, 30, 2013, and December 11, 2013, since the 7-year extension lapsed after June 30, 2012 and the Special Treatment was only reinstated on July 24, 2014.

The inevitable conclusion then is that between July 1, 2012 until July 24, 2014, when no Special Treatment for rice was in place under treaty, there was no need to secure import permits from the NFA to import rice. Correspondingly, since at the time of the subject importations, it was legal for petitioners to import rice without need of import permits, the seizure and forfeiture proceedings conducted by the Bureau of Customs were without legal basis, neither under RA No. 8178, nor under NFA Memorandum Circular No. AO-2K13-03-003.

Such being the case, the Court finds that the subject rice shipments in the instant consolidated cases should not be considered as illegal or prohibited by law.

As for petitioners' prayer for the award of the amounts allegedly held in escrow after respondent COC had auctioned off the subject shipments, petitioners failed to present evidence to support the award of the said amounts.

WHEREFORE, in light of the foregoing considerations, the consolidated Petitions for Review separately filed by petitioners Malingas and Evergreen are PARTIALLY GRANTED. Accordingly, the respective Orders of the District Collector in seizing and forfeiting the subject shipments and the separate Decisions of respondent COC affirming the same are REVERSED and SET ASIDE.
