In reply thereto, please be informed that Section 28 (B)(5)(b) of the Tax Code of 1997, as amended, provides that —

"SEC. 28. Rates of Income Tax on Foreign Corporations. —

(B) Tax on Nonresident Foreign Corporation. —

(5) Tax on Certain Incomes Received by a Nonresident Foreign Corporation. —

(b) Intercorporate Dividends. — A final withholding tax at the rate of fifteen percent (15%) is hereby imposed on the amount of cash and/or property dividends received from a domestic corporation, which shall be collected and paid as provided in Section 57(A) of this Code, subject to the condition that the country in which the non-resident foreign corporation is domiciled, shall allow a credit against the tax due from the non-resident foreign corporation taxes deemed to have been paid in the Philippines equivalent to twenty percent (20%), which represents the difference between the regular income tax of thirty-five percent (35%) and the fifteen percent (15%) tax on dividends as provided in this subparagraph: Provided, that effective January 1, 2009, the credit against the tax due shall be equivalent to fifteen percent (15%), which represents the difference between the regular income tax of thirty percent (30%) and the fifteen percent (15%) tax on dividends;"

Under the said provision, it is undisputed that a final withholding tax at the lower rate of fifteen percent (15%) is imposed on cash dividends received by a non-resident foreign corporation from a domestic corporation, subject to the condition that the country in which the non-resident foreign corporation is domiciled shall allow a credit against the tax due from the non-resident foreign corporation taxes deemed to have been paid in the Philippines equivalent to fifteen percent (15%). In other words, the only condition for the application of the tax sparing credit is that the country-domicile of the recipient corporation allows a credit against the tax due from non-resident foreign corporations.

In stressing the rationale of the above principle, the Supreme Court, in the case of Commissioner of Internal Revenue vs. Procter & Gamble Philippine Manufacturing Corporation, [204 SCRA 377 (1991)], and later reiterated in Singapore Telecom International Pte. Ltd. vs. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, CTA Case No. 7406 dated April 7, 2009, held that the preferential tax treatment of 15% of the final withholding tax on dividends received by a non-resident foreign corporation from a domestic corporation applies if the domiciliary law of the non-resident foreign corporation allows [a similar] tax credit for the taxes deemed paid in the Philippines.

The Supreme Court, in the case of Commissioner of Internal Revenue vs. Wander Philippines, Inc., [160 SCRA 573 (1988)] has ruled that exemption from taxes by the country of domicile of the non-resident corporate stockholder on the dividends received, is sufficient basis for the applicability of the 15% tax rate. Thus:

"While it may be true that claims for refund are construed strictly against the claimant, nevertheless, the fact that Switzerland did not impose any tax on the dividends received by Glaxo from the Philippines should be considered as a full satisfaction of the given condition. For, as aptly stated by respondent court, to deny private respondent the privilege to withhold only 15% tax provided for under Presidential Decree No. 369 amending Section 24(b)(1) of the Tax Code, would run counter to the very spirit and intent of said law and definitely will adversely affect foreign corporation's interest here and discourage them from investing capital in our country."

Thus, the exemption from taxes by the country of domicile of the non-resident corporate stockholder on the dividends received is sufficient for the applicability of the 15% tax rate.

In this case, CEL has received a written undertaking from the Minister of Finance in Bermuda under the Exempted Undertaking Tax Protection Act of 1966 that, in the event that any legislation is enacted in Bermuda imposing any tax computed on profits, income, gain or appreciation on any capital assets, or any tax in the nature of estate duty or inheritance tax, such tax will not be applicable to CEL, or any of its operations until March 28, 2016. The undertaking does not, however, prevent the imposition of taxes on any person ordinarily resident in Bermuda or any company in respect of its ownership of real property or leasehold interests in Bermuda.

Moreover, the Minister of Finance of the Government of Bermuda issued a Certification that Bermuda is not an Income Tax jurisdiction and persons residing therein are not subject to income tax. (BIR Ruling No. 057-12 dated February 9, 2012)

SUCH BEING THE CASE, this Office holds that cash dividends declared on July 22, 2013, to be paid by CE II to CEL, a non-resident foreign corporation domiciled in Bermuda, not later than fifteen (15) days from the actual receipt by CE II of its share in the dividends declared by CE Casecnan Water and Energy Company, Inc. during the board meeting held on July 22, 2013, are subject to the 15% final withholding tax as prescribed in Section 28 (B)(5)(b) of the Tax Code of 1997. (BIR Ruling Nos. 629-12 dated November 22, 2012 and 442-13 dated November 27, 2013)

This ruling is being issued on the basis of the foregoing facts as represented. However, if upon investigation, it will be disclosed that the facts are different, then this ruling shall be considered null and void.

Very truly yours,

KIM S. JACINTO-HENARES
Commissioner of Internal Revenue
